

In a perfect world, this issue of recording all programing would never arise, and common sense will tell you that recording won't make this a perfect world. This would be too expensive for many small stations to survive, it would require new equipment, and possibly extra personnel. We view this as mass punishment of innocent people (much like the Bath party in Iraq) who try to opperate above board and serve the public in a proper manner. This amounts to a huge fine for everyone, not just the guilty few. The rules and penalties already in place should be enough to stop this problem. I respectfully request that the commision not impose this fine on the innocent. Ralph Clenney
